TigerTMS launches new website, marking its move to an AI-first future for hospitality

New tigertms.com reflects four decades of hotel-technology heritage and a renewed focus on data-driven insight

Ringwood, UK, July 16th, 2026, – TigerTMS, a hospitality-technology provider with more than 40 years in the market, today launched a completely redesigned website at tigertms.com. The new site marks the next chapter for the business: a clear, AI-first positioning built on the data that drives smarter, faster hotel operations.

For four decades, TigerTMS applications and integration technology - including iLink, iCharge Enterprise, iPortal, AskTiger and innLine - have run quietly behind the scenes in more than 10,000 hotels worldwide. The new website brings that work to the surface, setting out how the company is applying artificial intelligence across its platform and its 275+ integrations.

"AI is the technology, but data-driven insight is what we deliver," said James Slatter, Managing Director, TigerTMS. "Our new home reflects who we are today - a 40-year hospitality leader using AI to turn everyday operational signals into decisions hoteliers can act on, so their teams can focus on the guest."

The redesigned tigertms.com offers a clearer view of the company's solutions, its approach to integration and intelligence, and the support that has defined the TigerTMS name for a generation. It is the first step in a wider programme of investment in AI-led products and services.

The new website is live now at tigertms.com.
